This Week's

Graduation Reviewing Officer

Judge James E. Baker

Reviewing today’s graduation is Judge James E. Baker. President Clinton appointed Baker to the United States Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces on Sept. 19, 2000.

Baker previously served as special assistant to the president and legal adviser to the National Security Council from 1997-2000, where he advised the president, the National Security Advisor and the NSC staff on U.S. and international law involving national security, including: use of force, the law of armed conflict, intelligence activities, foreign assistance, terrorism, arms control, human rights, and international law enforcement.

Baker served as deputy legal adviser to the National Security Council from 1994-1997, and as Counsel to the President’s Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board and Intelligence Oversight Board. As an attorney adviser in the Office of the Legal Advisor, Department of State, he provided advice on law enforcement, intelligence, and counter-terrorism as well as serving as legal adviser to U.S. delegations to various environmental negotiations.

Judge Baker served as a legislative aide and acting Chief of Staff to Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan from 1985-1987. Baker is the author, with Michael Reisman, of Regulating Covert Action (Yale University Press: 1992).

Upon graduating from college, he received a reserve commission as a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps. He subsequently earned a regular commission at The Basic School before joining the Fleet Marine Force where he served as a rifle platoon leader, weapons platoon leader, company executive officer and as an aide-de-camp.

While an undergraduate,

Baker attended the Platoon Leaders Class. He finished first in his class at Officer Candidates School, for which Yale received the Commandant’s Trophy. Baker resigned his reserve commission upon joining the United States Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces.

Baker is the recipient of the 1999 Col. Nelson Drew Memorial Award, the NSC’s highest honor. The award recognizes “distinguished contributions to the formation of peaceful, cooperative relationships between states, and U.S. security policy for global peace.” He is also the recipient of the Director of Central Intelligence’s “Director’s Award.”

Baker was born in New Haven, Conn., and raised in Cambridge, Mass. He is a 1982 graduate of Yale College and 1990 graduate of Yale Law School.
